WORLD DAY FOR CONSECRATED LIFE

God of all goodness, you have called people to follow you faithfully. Humans have heard that call and many choose to follow your call in varied and faith-filled lives. Some follow your call in private, silent lives as hermits; some choose to follow you with lives lived as virgins and widows; while others choose public lives of vowed men and women as religious brothers and sisters.

FEBRUARY 2ND

Abundantly give to these men and women the courage to follow their call as witnesses to your gifts and faith and service to the world. We ask this in faith through the name of Jesus our Savior. Amen.

2024 GUIDE BOOKS

By now you've probably received your 2024 Guide Book in the mail. Please note, we are working to update our records as best we can to ensure the most accurate information is provided to our parishioners. That being said, you will have probably noticed the change in how many parishioners are included. We decided to submit the information for only those of you who completed your request to be included in this year's edition. Books in the recent past have included many individuals that have not been an active part of the parish for quite some time, are deceased or have not reported moving from our area. Though it's a drastic change we are confident this will generate a more accurate source of information to you all. A form will be made available at a later date to submit your request for 2025. Thanks for your understanding!

You can put your donation in the Poor Boxes, or put it in an envelope marked "SVDP" and put it in the collection basket or drop it off at the Rectory Office.

FIRST READING: Deuteronomy 18:15-20 | The events in today's reading take place as the Israelites are camped on the shore of the Jordan River ready to enter the Promised Land. Moses is near death and is giving final instructions. He promises that after his death, God will still be with them through another prophet. Both Jewish and Christian readers have seen this as referring to the future Messiah.

SECOND READING: 1 Corinthians 7:32-35 | In this section of the first letter to the Corinthians, Paul is responding to their question about whether it is better to remain single or become married. Paul's belief was that when you became Christian, you shouldn't take on a new state in life since he expected Jesus would return in glory very soon.

REFLECTIONS | SACRED HEART COUNSELING

In Northeast Ohio, this time of year can be really difficult. No, I am not referencing the Browns. I am talking about the cold and general lack of sunlight. When I moved here from South Dakota, I thought winters would be the same, if not milder and easier. I learned quickly that, while the temperature might have been colder, we at least had the sun in South Dakota. Here in Cleveland, it seems like we can go weeks without seeing the sun sometimes. From what I have observed as a counselor, January and February are generally two of the most difficult months of the year, and self-care becomes even more important. When it comes to self-care, I think it is best to think of it in terms of recreation. The root word of recreation is re-create, which means to re-create. So, with self-care, what are we trying to recreate? Hopefully, we are trying to recreate our energy, motivation, and love of God and neighbor. When we think of it in these terms, it helps us to evaluate what the best forms of self-care are for us. For me, I know there is a very different feeling after watching Netflix for two hours versus watching Netflix for eight hours. If I stop at two, I feel much more rested and ready to tackle the next thing. If I stop after eight, I feel lethargic and lazy. So the question is this- what recreates in you what you want to be recreated? When it comes to self-care, we often think first of things like relaxing, treating ourselves, or entertainment. However, difficult things can be very recreational such as cleaning, exercising, or charitable actions for others. It all depends on the person! This week, consider reflecting on self-care and ways that you can potentially improve your recreation during this difficult time of year. —Luke Brown

COMMUNION & MORTAL SIN

Question: I have a friend who receives communion, but who I know for a fact is in a state of mortal sin. Should I tell our priest? Is it my responsibility to say something?

Answer: While we may always want to do what is best for our friends and family members, we have a responsibility to respect their privacy and their conscience. In its reflections on the Eighth Commandment (“You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor”), the Catechism of the Catholic Church states, “Respect for the reputation of persons forbids every attitude and word likely to cause them unjust injury. [One] becomes guilty: -of rash judgment who, even tacitly, assumes as true, without sufficient foundation, the moral fault of a neighbor; -of detraction who, without objectively valid reason, discloses another’s faults and failings to persons who do not know them; of calumny who, by remarks contrary to the truth, harms the reputation of others and gives occasion for false judgments concerning them” (no. 2477).

We will never truly know what is in a person’s mind, heart, and soul; only God knows those things. We should, of course, take our concerns to God and entrust the person about whom we are concerned to God’s grace and mercy. If we have concerns about the spiritual wellbeing of someone with whom we are close, we should go to the person themselves and talk about our fears and concerns. Unless it is a case of abuse or endangerment (which we have a moral and even legal responsibility to report to the appropriate authorities), we ultimately do not have the freedom to share another’s persons faults or sins, however good we think our intentions might be.

REFLECTIONS FOR EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP

“LEADING OTHERS TO CHRIST”

By: Tracy Earl Welliver, MTS

When I reflect on the many years of my life, there are many people who were influential on my development as a person, a student, and a Christian. Through their graciousness and generosity, I was able to work through challenges and difficulties, becoming stronger in the end. They pushed me to become better than I was at the time and helped me to see what I could eventually become. Without them giving of themselves to me I am unsure where I would be today.

Because others were good stewards of the gifts and talents God gave them, I now strive to use wisely what I have been given as well. Yes, I spend much of my time on the road speaking in churches about stewardship and I write books and articles about this way of life, but my real desire is to impact the most those around me. I want my children to see how I am growing in this life and be an example to them. I want me and my wife to grow in generosity together. My hope is that my friends see a light in me and inquire about how and why it is there. Above all, I want to live with a graciousness and hospitality that others find welcoming.

I believe that through our kindness and grace-filled existence God can touch others, heal others, and embrace others. We are the hands and feet of Christ. May we, today and every day we hear his voice, harden not our hearts.

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Dear Parishioners,

While being on vacation is still fresh on my mind, I thought I'd let those interested know that the website for our trip to Italy next year (March 17-28, 2025) is now updated with the final price which is $4800. You can reserve your spot now with a $300 deposit. Please note that 1 out of the 5 available single rooms is already reserved so if you prefer to room by yourself, be aware that there is limited availability (and there is an additional charge as the $4800 is for double occupancy). The link to that website is on our parish website (leothegreat.org). This is also a 12 day trip vs. the 10 day one we took last year. Viva la Roma.

We were able to celebrate my sister's gentle entry into her 6th decade of life with fun and memories. My other two sisters decorated her cabin with balloons, signs, a gift basket & lots of pictures detailing the blessings of her life. I also learned that I could have saved myself that $14.16 I spent on a glass of wine that I needed for Mass by just taking the almost emptied bottle of wine that my two brother-in-laws shared at dinner (which I did for the Mass I celebrated a week later). But the money spent on a glass of wine is literally a few drops in the ocean of money that one spends on a vacation these days. But it was such a good time that we're planning on spending New Year's Eve next year on another cruise. Never too early to plan ahead. I also made a trip up the stairs to see the little chapel that was on the highest floor of the ship (closest to God perhaps?). It was a nice little space that was non-denominational but also prepared for the celebration of Mass as I noticed a Roman Missal available there (the book Catholic priests use during Mass). As I was wondering to myself how many come into that space out of a few thousand people on board, a couple came up to offer some prayers. My sister also told me that she was in there as well. Glad to see that people still remember God when on vacation.

We welcome Caleb Friebe into our Catholic Family this weekend as he is baptized into the Faith on Saturday. May God who has begun the good work in him and his family carry it through to completion.

This Sunday evening I will be having a Mass at the home of a couple who were good friends of mine at St. Ladislaus in Lorain. I believe I mentioned that they both passed away last year. Two of their grandchildren and some of their cousins asked me at the grandmother's funeral luncheon if I would help them receive the Sacrament of Confirmation. I was thrilled that they would be so moved by their grandparent's faith that they would ask for this sacrament for themselves. So please say a little prayer for these 5 young adults that they may practice the faith that was so important to their family members.

I wanted to remind you that it's very easy to make an appointment with myself, Deacon Pat or Joan Berigan through our website. We are always here to serve you and want to make ourselves available to you. In that same vein, we will be working with Luke Brown from Sacred Heart Counseling (which we advertise in our bulletin & on our website) to help offset some of the expense involved in counseling. They provide therapy through a faith-based background so we are glad to be partnering with them to make this available to you. More information about this will be forthcoming next month.

As we enter into the month of February this week, I hope and pray that you are safe in your travels, especially when we have icy and/or snowy roads. Please stay home if the weather presents the possibility of unsafe travel for you. But as always, I look forward to seeing you.

Fr. James Schmitz
